Constitutional Amendments.

A Proclamation by the Governor.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE STATE OF WEST

VIRGINIA:

You are hereby notified that the general election to be held in said

State on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1902, there will be submitted for ratification or rejection five separate amendments to the Constitution of said state, as follows, to wit:

FIRST PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

That the second, third, fourth and seventh sections of article seven be amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 2. An election for governor, secretary of state, state superintendent of free schools, county treasurer, attorney general shall be held at such times and places as may be prescribed by law.

"Sec. 3. The returns of every election shall be sealed up and transmitted by the returning officers to the secretary of state, directed to the speaker of the house of delegates, who shall immediately after the organization of the house, and before proceeding to business, open and publish the same, in the presence of a majority of each house of the legislature, which shall for that purpose assemble in the hall of the house of delegates. The person having the majority of votes for either of said houses shall be declared duly elected therefor; but if two or more have an equal and the highest number of votes for the same office, the election shall be decided by lot, and choice one of such persons for said office. Contested elections for the office of governor shall be decided by the electors, and the electors shall be chosen by lot, and

said office may be prescribed by law. The electors shall be chosen by the electors, and the electors shall be chosen by lot, and choice one of such persons for said office may be prescribed by law.

"Sec. 4. None of the executive officers mentioned in this article shall hold any other office during the term of his service. The governor shall not be eligible to said office for the four years next immediately following the term for which he was elected.

"Sec. 17. If the office of secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, state superintendent of free schools, or attorney general, shall become vacant by death, resignation or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the governor to fill the same by appointment, and the appointee shall hold his office until the successor shall be elected and qualified in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The appointee

shall hold his office until the suc-

prescribed by law.

will be printed. Officers' Salary
Amendment
Amending section 19 of article 7.
"For Ratification."
"For Rejection."
Those favoring the ratification of said amendment will vote, For Ratification; those opposing will vote For Rejection.
THIRD PROPOSED AMENDMENT.
That the following be proposed as an amendment to the constitution of this State:
"The supreme court of appeals shall consist of five judges. Those judges in office who shall continue in office until their terms shall expire, and the legislature shall provide for the election of an additional judge of said court at the next general election, whose term shall expire on the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and five, and the governor shall, as vacancies appear, appoint a judge to hold office until the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and five. The judges of the supreme court of appeals and of the circuit courts shall receive such salaries as shall be fixed by law, for those now in office hereafter to come into office." Said Third proposed amendment is designated "Judicial Amendment," and on the ballot will be printed:
"(3) Judicial Amendment."
"Amending sections 2 and 16 of article 8."
"For Ratification."
"For Rejection."

Those favoring the ratification
of said amendment will vote, For
vote, For Rejection.
The statement above from chapter 158 of the Acts of 1901, that this Third proposed amendment is an amendment to sections 2 and 16 of article 8, appears to be explanatory, for, by reference to House Joint Resolution No. 15, it appears that this Third proposed amendment is a general amendment to the Constitution and not limited by said original enactment to any particular section or sections thereof.

FOURTH PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

as an amendment to the constitution of this State:
"The accumulation of the school fund provided for in section four of article twelve, of the constitution of this State, shall cease upon the adoption of this amendment and all money to the credit of said fund over one million of dollars, together with the interest on said fund, shall be used for the support of the free schools of this State."

"All money and taxes heretofore paid into the treasury under the provision of the said section four to the credit of the school fund shall be hereafter paid into the treasury to the credit of the general fund for the support of the free schools of this State." Said Fourth proposed amendment is designated "Irreducible School Fund Amendment," and on the ballot will be printed:
"(4) Irreducible School Fund Amendment."
"Amending section 4 of article 12 of the Constitution."
"For Ratification."
"For Rejection."

Those favoring the ratification
of said amendment will vote, For Ratification; those opposing will
vote, For Rejection.
The statement above, from chapter 158 of the Acts of 1901, that this Fourth proposed amendment is an amendment to section 4 of article 12, appears to be explanatory, for, by reference to House
that this Fourth proposed amendment is a general amendment to
particular section or sections of the constitution.

FIFTH PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

That article 8, section twelve, of the Constitution of this State, be amended so as to read as follows:
"Section 12. The legislature shall provide for the election of judges of the supreme court of appeals and of the circuit courts, the term of which shall be fixed by law."

Said Fifth proposed amendment is designated "Supreme Court Amend-
printed:
"(5) Supreme Court Amendment."
"Amending sections 2, 4 and 12 of article 8."
"For Ratification."
"For Rejection."

Those favoring the ratification
of said amendment will vote, For Ratification; those opposing will
vote, For Rejection.
The statement above, from chapter 158 of the Acts of 1901, that this Fifth proposed amendment is an amendment to sections 2, 4 and 12 of article 8, appears to be explanatory, for, by reference to House Joint Resolution No. 29, it appears that this Fifth proposed amendment is a general amendment to the constitution and not limited by said original enactment to any particular section or sections of the constitution.

CUTTING ELEPHANTS CORNS.

A Job That Most Men Approach Can Only Be Done Right.
Elephants have tender feet. Their nails have to be pared and treated constantly or they will grow inches of hangnails. They are terribly sensitive about this part of their body, and at times will not let anyone touch with a knife or saw. A horse has to have his feet trimmed when he goes to a smith, and an elephant wears down his toes, but he does not get enough exercise for that, here, says the Denver Post, he gets terrific corns and so has to be pared.

When an elephant has gone through the operation a few times, with the intelligence of his kind he soon learns to let anyone trim his nails readily. The hangnails are clipped with a pair of big shears, and then the toes are worked upon with a rasp about once or twice.

Then comes the ticklish part.
A large saw knife is used to cut a couple of inches off the sole of each foot.
When it is cut down pretty fine the rasp is used. Every little while the surface is pressed hard with the thumb, and when the elephant winces the rasp is used to be near him. If he stops, a single rasp on the quick and the elephant is killing mad.

There is one elephant in the Ringling herd so tender on her feet and so nervous that so far it has been impossible to trim her feet. It was tried a week ago and she nearly killed the chiropodist at the first rasp. She needs attention badly, but she doesn't appreciate the fine points of pedicure, and she thinks it is up to her to kill all who try it. She utterly refuses to put her feet on the block and she gets frightened to death when held. Her keeper says he will fix her this week and cut her corns and rasp and break her nails if he has to call out the militia and her howls are heard in Honolulu.

After the corns are cut and nails pared the feet are soaked in hot water and the elephant is to be near him. After that they feel as comfortable as though wearing carpet slippers.
But the feet must not be dried except in warm weather. Elephants get cold easily. They have rheumatism, too, and the corns are a great deal of trouble by the barrel to rub their lame muscles.

GARIBALDI'S WARLIKE WIFE.

Italian Patriotic's Helgata Fought by His Side.

In the fierce fray Garibaldi often desired his wife to take part only as a spectator—a part that did not suit her bourgeois nature in the least.
On one such occasion, in a battle between the imperialists and the republican army, says the Chautauquan, she begged permission at least to have charge of the ammunition. This was granted her, but during a heavy rain, in her excitement she approached the principal scene of action. At this moment a crowd of the enemy's cavalry who were pursuing some fugitives appeared before her. She might have been hurt by instant flight, but knowing not what fear was, she disdained to turn her horse or hasten his pace until she was surrounded by the enemy. Then she sprang to her feet and fired. A shot hit whistled through her hair and cut off a lock of her hair. A second killed her horse, and she was obliged to surrender. The officers, forgetful of her dignity, and gloating over their prize, cried in their victory, and taunted her with the defeat of the republican army. She treated their savage remarks with such laughing dignity that they became ashamed of themselves, and when begged permission to search among the dead on the battlefield for the body of her husband this was granted her.

She went about, searching fearfully among the piled forms for the one that was lost to her. There were friends and acquaintances—among them some she had seen there such a short time ago—but nowhere the one that she sought and feared she might find. At last the joyful confusion came to her that he had escaped. She then made up her mind to make an effort herself to escape. Her virtues, unconscious of success, were making her desperate, and she gave up her mission and gave up her husband's prisoner. The remaining hours of the day she hid herself in the bed of an old woman who did not know who she was, and when night fell she disappeared in the darkness. She knew how something of the kind might happen that would save the remains of the Republic from the hands of the enemy.

Vote for the Nominees, Democrats.
Hon. Jas. H. Miller, of Hinton, was in Marlinton between trains Tuesday. He is making the greatest race known for Congress and though the Republican majority for Mr. Gaines two years ago was nearly 5000 it is anybody's victory this year. Mr. Miller is one of the most astute politicians in the State and is one of the ablest and swiftest runners in politics. He has been practicing law in Summers County for about twenty years and has been much tried and true friend to what is called the laboring classes that they readily forget party affiliations when he is in the field and vote for him. He is a man they all like and esteem and he has an indomitable energy that has enabled him to carry on a campaign the like of which has never been seen in this district.

There is an element in the Democratic party that can elect him if they so desire. The labor vote will be for him and if the old line democrats will let their business slide long enough to go to the polls and cast their votes and say a good word for him on election day the chances are that we will elect him this year.

This is so little for each to do but it will count for so much. It is the only thing that is the matter with the Democrats of today. The industrious careful husbandmen the strength of the party remains at home to the perils of his country. Such Democrats must assert themselves if Democracy which best represents the spirit of America is not to perish from the earth.

MR. ANDREW PRICE,
MARLINTON, W. VA.,
MY DEAR MR. PRICE,

I understand from some persons recently returned from Pocahontas that our friends over there are inclined to withdraw their support from Hon. R. F. Kidd the Democratic candidate for State Senator in your district. I have been very much pained to hear this and sincerely and earnestly hope that that report may be untrue because Mr. Kidd is worthy, is every way, of the united and earnest support of every Democrat in his senatorial district. I would feel particularly disappointed if Pocahontas county should fail in giving its support to Benjamin Kidd, who has been a faithful and earnest Democrat throughout all the vicissitudes of the party's career, in this state for the past twenty years, its full support. With Hon. Jim Miller as its candidate for Congress and Senator Kidd as candidate for State Senator, it seems to me that the Democrats of Pocahontas have a ticket which commends itself to the support of every Democrat in the county. Won't you kindly send me one hundred extra dollars and sign these to assist party efforts. I ask you to see this letter to any body on any subject about it.

Yours truly,
A. T. McNEEL.

Genuine the President.

From the present appearance it will be necessary for every Democrat in the county to come to the polls and cast his vote at the next election.

The Republicans are looking up and asking better to a Democratic cause. Their words are full of hope but they are waiting to hear it on the coming election day. If they cannot win they will not be so sure of their own power. But it is not so sure of their own power.

trump up some excuse to turn their back on the party of their fathers.
Some few of the Democrats of this class have already gone over to the enemy and if we stay at home on election day we may allow them to have their petty triumph of breaking the county ticket.

If any Democrat does not understand how to appear at the polls, sick or well, in bad weather or good, let him take lessons from his nearest Republican neighbor and he will soon learn how it is done.

Any person who knows anything about the politics of Pocahontas county is aware that the Republican gains made in this county in the past few years have been caused by the fact that there have been practically no stay at home on election day, while the percentage of the Democrats who stayed at home has been large.

Suppose then that we adopt the successful tactics of the Republican party and all vote this year for the sake of the party and to save trouble in years to come. Laying all questions of national importance aside let us keep the County party together for the sake of past years when we stood shoulder to shoulder.

Old time Democrats should take the trouble to vote, save the fair county of Pocahontas from the hand of the invader.

SCHOOL FUND AMENDMENT.

John C. Shaw, Principle Glenville Normal School.

In reply to your request for an expression of my views upon the School Fund Amendment, I desire to say that Prof. Riggs's article in your issue of October 9, is rather a comprehensive statement of the nature of the Fund and need not be repeated at so early a date. But the question remains for the voters of West Virginia to answer on the Fourth of November, how they will dispose of the amendment.

It is not easy for me to make a brief statement of the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed amendment, without revealing my position. So I shall preface my remarks by saying I am opposed to the amendment. It would appear, as an act of inconsistency for one now engaged in teaching, who must look after his own financial welfare, to oppose the amendment. But the good financier must see beyond present needs and it should be realized that there is more than a money consideration in the question.

Should the amendment carry there would be about $250,000 made available for present use. No provision has been made providing for the expenditure of the money, but it would, unless otherwise provided for, be turned into the State fund. It has been suggested that the money be used to build a high school building in county. To be sure, this does not seem to be in line with the legislature, but in case it is done the quarter million would be consumed in erecting buildings and, in that event, taxes would necessarily be increased, even the first year, to meet the running expense of the schools established. It is quite probable, the sum required available would be used to establish county high schools or be devoted to some other form of education which would prevent the reaching of the money. Should it be turned into the State fund and distributed to the districts in one or two years, it is not reasonable to suppose the State or district, taxes would be increased a little for the same time and actually derive any appreciable advantage.

Furthermore if the fund is permitted to continue to grow, its dividends will soon exceed the income offered by the amendment. The business man in a bad situation without a working capital. The writer recalls a year's experience in Texas where the permanent fund yielded five dollars for every child enumerated. It is easy under such conditions to have eight or nine months school. The amendment is contrary to the precedent of other States. On the contrary some of them are increasing their funds by taxation.

It should be said the amendment is not a political measure. Both sides of the question are championed by men from both the leading political parties.

If it is an advantage for colleges and universities to have endowments, if it is wise for individuals to acquire wealth, it is expedient for banks and other business institutions to accumulate a surplus, and if it is a policy of other states to provide increasing permanent school funds, would not our beloved and prosperous state make a mistake in decreasing the only permanent provision she has in store for the education of her boys and girls, when her people shall possibly be less prosperous financially.
